

Anti-Spam Policy

Spam is strictly against our policies and Terms of Use, and will result in the immediate disengagement of any partners, affiliates or third parties who are found to have used spam in conjunction with their Six Soldiers advertising agreements. No communications will be delivered to individuals without prior expressed written consent.

We reserve the right to terminate any marketing services agreement at any time should presume a marketing partner is in violation of these policies or is participating in spamming.

Subscriptions: Mailing list subscriber information must include the date and time that the subscription was confirmed, as well as the IP address of the subscriber at the time of the confirmation. The user must be able to present this information at our request.

The nature of email address use must be fully disclosed, either on the page the subscription is made from or with a prominent link to the site's Privacy Policy. It must be made clear how a user's email address will be used and when it will be shared.

Lists shall not be obtained from outside parties unless the email sender has procured a list from the organization that sells or otherwise shares email distribution lists, and all of the following conditions are met:

- a. The selling organization maintains a publicly viewable privacy policy disclosing that such sales may occur.
- b. The privacy policy is prominently linked to from the page the subscriber signed up from.
- c. The privacy policy has not changed substantially since the user signed up.
- d. Proper records are kept of the date, time, IP address, and form location where the subscribing user signed up from.
- e.

- f. Lists procured from outside parties must have been consistently handled in a manner comparable to Six Soldiers policies.
- g. Users cannot populate lists with addresses obtained for a substantially different purpose than was originally disclosed to the user.
- h. Third Parties must not modify the headers of any message in such a way that purposefully obscures the origin of the message.
- i. Third Parties are responsible for the practices of any affiliate program members they solicit the help of Third Parties using either outside advertising companies or
- j.
- k. Third party mailing programs must abide by the same policies and practices as those using Six Soldiers own bulk mailing list tools.
- l. All mailings must provide clear and simple to follow instructions for opting- out of future mailings, and all reasonable attempts must be made to facilitate the removal of a mailing list subscriber at their request.
- m. Undeliverable addresses must be removed from all future mailings after no more than five bounces.
